All about Pepper: Stolen, bought, then returned to Staglands

Pepper's been birdnapped! Sulphur Crested Cockatoo stolen from Staglands

Our precious Sulphur Crested Cockatoo 'Pepper' was stolen on Sunday afternoon 17th November 2024 from her home in the huge Toe Toe aviary at Staglands.

Distinguishable features of Pepper as follows:

- She is missing a few claws on her feet.
- Her favourite expressions are "hello pepper" and "hello darling".
- Pepper is very friendly and cuddly.
- Age is approximately 6 years old.

As you can imagine, staff at Staglands are very upset. She was much loved by everyone including our many visitors of all ages – children especially loved to hear her chatter.

Please be on the lookout if someone has recently acquired a cockatoo. It may just be our 'Pepper'!

A police report has been filed. If you have any information in relation to this incident that could help. Please phone police or online <https://webforms.police.govt.nz/en/update-report> and quote case #241119/4730 or contact us directly. Thanks.

Pepper is back home at Staglands

Staglands cockatoo "Pepper" has come back to Staglands after being stolen from the Toe Toe aviary there last weekend.

The thief sold her online to an unknowing buyer in Porirua last Monday for $1,500. The buyer was in the gym at the time when he saw the article on 1news and recognised his new cockatoo as Pepper. He then handed it into the Porirua police station where she was taken care of until her keepers came and took her back home to Staglands. For extra security at this time, Pepper is in a separate aviary which isn't open to the public, people can still interact with her through the fence though.

The buyer has provided the police with a description of the person who sold him Pepper.

Sarah Purdy, the general manager at Staglands thanked the community for their support and the young man who brought Pepper to the police station.

Summer is almost here again so here's a reminder about the rules regarding permanent and temporary pools.

Thinking of buying a temporary pool?

Summer is nearly here and we know lots of people will be thinking of buying a temporary pool to cool off as the temperature rises

Did you know owners of temporary (and permanent) pools have legal obligations to make sure young children stay safe?

- A pool that can hold more than 40 cm of water must be registered with Council (at a 3-yearly cost of $200—which includes an inspection).
- A pool that can hold more than 40 cm of water must also have a barrier and we need to inspect it every three years, so we know it's fit for purpose.
- Pool fencing can be expensive and needs a building consent from Council.
- Small paddling pools are exempt, as long as they can't hold more than 40 cm of water.

Find out everything you need to know about owning a temporary pool at <https://www.upperhutt.govt.nz/Services/Health-and-safety/Swimming-pools>

Reporter, Nicholas Boyack died last Sunday afternoon, aged 63

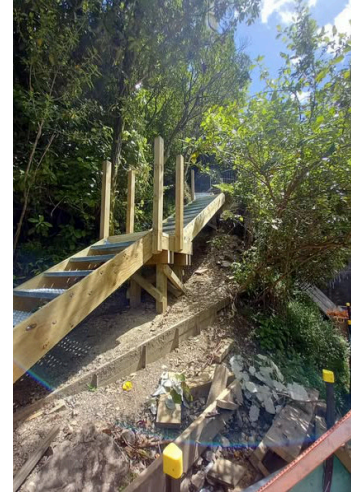

Hutt Valley reporter, Nicholas Boyack died suddenly on Sunday afternoon, 17th of November.

Lower Hutt mayor, Campbell Barry said Boyack “was a journalist with great integrity who cared deeply about the Hutt Valley and its people.” “For more than 30 years Nicholas reported on local issues and held successive councils to account. He will be remembered for his dedication, no-nonsense approach and his eclectic taste in shirts,”

The flag at Hutt City Council was at half-mast to acknowledge his passing.

An update on the stairs at Birchville Dam

Over the past couple of weeks, the construction crew have been making progress on replacing the old Birchville Dam Stairs.

The guard rails and grabrails are the next to be installed. Please remember that this is still an active worksite. We ask that you hold off visiting until the track is re-opened.

Keep your eyes peeled on our Facebook page; it won't be long until the track is re-opened for use.

Silverstream Spur decision appealed

We have found out today (20th November 2024) that there has been an appeal lodged against the decision made by Upper Hutt City Council as part of Plan Change 49.

We would like to thank everyone who has supported the endeavour to save the Silverstream Spur and ask for your support for those fighting once again.

From what we understand the council decision adopted the commissioners findings including the provision of a significant natural area and submitters had 30 working days to appeal the decision, which Guildford Timber Company have done today, the final day of the 30 days.

This means that the Plan Change now heads to the Environment Court. This is where it will be decided if Guildford Timber Companies appeal, seeking to have the commissioners recommendations overturned and the Plan Change put in place as originally notified (with special “bespoke” provisions for a road and infrastructure corridor) including any specific changes they seek, will be upheld.

So far the plan change has cost rate payers $188,000 with an additional $23,000 spent on ensuring that the risk of appeal was reduced. Undoubtedly this amount will continue to balloon for Upper Hutt Council on legal expenses in the Environment Court.

An Upper Hutt Councillor has suggested, There's the plan change 49 v1 and the appeal process, and also the fast track legislation in play. Anyone wanting to make their voice heard on these could do so on all processes. For the fast track, you could write to the ministers responsible (Simeon Brown, Chris Bishop and Shane Jones) and the Parliamentary Commissioner for the Environment. There will not be a chance for public input now but there is nothing to stop anyone emailing the ministers their views.

If you wish to, maybe a few emails to Council, Mayor, the CEO and CC in all other Councillors supporting the decision they made.

Also emails/messages to the Environment Court maybe the course of action.

We hope to update with more information as it becomes available.

Changes made to the Akatārawa Cemetery expansion project

As we move into the detailed design phase of the Akatārawa Cemetery expansion, we're making key adjustments to ensure the project meets future demand while minimising environmental impact.

What's new?

- Updated site surveys revealed differences in topography and ecology, prompting adjustments to the original 2017 plan.
- The access road has been rerouted to reduce environmental impact, thanks to the discovery of an existing road.
- Some development areas have been reduced based on the new ecological insights.
- The project will extend capacity for burials and ashes interments by 42 more years.

What's next?

- Resource consent will be lodged late November 2024.
- We're ensuring the expansion fits the needs of our communities, including space for natural burials and cultural requirements.

Jack and Mike Byrne / Josh and Sally Murphy win the Parent / Child tournament at Pinehaven Tennis Club

The annual Parent/Child tournament took place on Sunday 17th November.

The weather was perfect for some great tennis with many Juniors participating (possibly coaching!) their parental partners!

Alas there had to be a winner!

So congratulations to Jack Byrne and his dad, Mike (competitive) – and Josh Murphy and his mum , Sally (noncompetitive).

Special mention to Freya Morgan who, despite being in the beginner coaching sessions, proved she could hold her own against some more experienced players!!

A big shout out to Marshall for organising everything!!

And a big thank you to all those who participated.

RECIPES

The Upper Hutt Connection

Curried Sausages

Original Recipe: Edmonds

A very basic recipe, but you can jazz it up with your own additions. Ingredients in italics aren't critical, but they are what I've added to mine.

Ingredients:

- 450 – 500g sausages
- 1 tbsp canola or sunflower oil
- 2 onions, finely chopped or finely sliced
- 1 tsp garlic salt
- 1 tsp curry power, mild or hot to suit preference
- 1 1/2 cups of chicken stock
- Tin chopped tomatoes
- 1 Zucchini, finely chopped
- 1 carrot, sliced into rings
- 3-4 mushrooms, sliced

Method

1. Cook the sausages in a frying pan. Once cooked, drain away any fat which has come out and dispose of it thoughtfully. Then add some fresh oil to the pan (olive oil can be used)
2. Add the onion, zucchini, carrot, and mushrooms to the mixture (if using), and cook over a medium heat until the vegetables are lightly cooked.
3. Add the garlic salt and curry powder, and stir them in.
4. Add the tin of chopped tomatoes (if using)
5. Add the chicken stock and cook until heated through. Serve with rice.

Coffee Slice

Ingredients:

- 100g butter
- 1/8 cup sugar (do half 1/4 cup measure)
- 1 cup flour
- 2 tbsp instant coffee

Buttercream icing:

- 1 cup icing sugar
- 50g butter, softened
- 1/4 tsp vanilla essence
- 1 tsp milk
- 2 tbsp instant coffee

Method:

1. Cream the butter, sugar and instant coffee, then stir in the flour. Knead with your hands to make sure the ingredients are well mixed.
2. Press into a greased slice tin, and bake for 10 minutes at 170°C
3. Place slice tin on a wire rack to cool completely.

To make the buttercream icing:

1. In a measuring jug, cream the butter with half the icing sugar. Add the vanilla, milk, and the instant coffee, beating until smooth.
2. Beat in the remaining icing sugar, and spread butter cream icing over the cold slice.

The Upper Hutt Connection Christmas Cookbook – Let's share our recipes! | Last date for entries, Wednesday 4th of December

Hi everyone,

I've had an idea for a Christmassy thing this year. It's completely free apart from having a few minutes to submit a Christmas recipe you have.

I'm thinking of making an Christmas Recipe Cookbook (in PDF form of course), and emailing a copy of it to everyone who submits a recipe.

- All you have to do is send a Christmas related recipe you have, it can be a meal, baked items, or a dessert – Or something else for that matter, as long as it's edible it's all good.

- Include your name or how you'd like to be credited, be it first name, surname, initials, etc – it's entirely up to you.

- And a photo of the recipe if you can, otherwise I'll get an image off a recipe website like the BBC or something like that.

The cut-off date for recipes is Wednesday the 4th of December. I'll then begin compiling the cookbook.

Please note that the cookbook won't be printed – I don't have the finances for this!

Hope to hear back with many recipe ideas. Please send your emails to editor@uhconnection.co.nz.
